The Recent Larceny Case.—John E. Ring, arrested a few days ago upon a charge of stealing a couple of silk dresses from Mrs. Collins, No. 50 Mound-street, had a trial yesterday morning, which resulted in sentenc-ing the defendant to the County Jail at hard

Child Run Over and Severely Injured. A little girl, daughter of Mrs. Anderson, residing in Seventa-street, east of Broadway, was run over, yesterday afternoon, and severely injured. Her collar-bone was broken, and several of her ribs fractured; but her wounds, although painful, are not likely to prove fatal.

LATE READING.—Frank Leslie's Illustrated Newspaper, Harper's Weekly, the New York Clipper, and Wilkes's Spirit, for October 20, have been received by G. N. Lewis, at No. 28 West Sixth-street. He also is in receipt of No. 3 of Beadle's Dime Novels, entitled "The Slave Sculptor; or, the Prophetess of the Secret Chamber."

Man Injured by a Fall.—A carpenter, named John Miles, fell, yesterday morning, from the roof of a building he was engaged in shingling, in Clark-street, to the roof of a house adjoining, a distance of nearly twenty feet. He was taken up and removed to his residence in Chesnut-street, where his wounds, which are not severe, were promptly

MEETING OF THE CARDITORS OF HENRY ES-ANN.—A meeting of the creditors of Henry Cantain was held at No. 73 West Thirdasmann was held at No. 73 West Third-street, last night, but as reporters were ex-cluded, we are unable to give a full account of the proceedings. We learn, however, that the liabilities amount to about $20,000, and that it is the intention of the creditors to establish the genuineness of Mr. Wolff's signature in every instance. If successful, Mr. Esmann will be relieved of the charge of forgery.

WRISKY INSPECTORS BEFORE THE POLICE COURT.—Alonzo W. Churchill and William Skillinger, charged with usurpation of office, in unlawfully exercising the duties of inspectors of domestic spirits, were before the Police Court yesterday morning on warrant. Not being ready for trial, the cases were continued until next Monday, the accused giving their own recognizances, in $100 each, for their appearance at that time.

Burglary in Linn-street, near Court, was feloniously entered night before last and robbed of $35 and sundry articles of wearing apparel. The burglars effected an entrance by forcing open a door in the rear of the house, and did their business so quietly that they departed with their booty, leaving the inmates wholly unconscious of the nocturnal visit they had unconsciously received.

SUPPRING IN A FIT.—A lad about nine years of age, named Michael Wells, residing with his parents in Rittenhouse-street, during an epileptic fit with which he was attacked yesterday morning, fell into the fire and was fearfully burned. His neck, face, arms and chest, were charred in the most borrible manner, while his hands were burned to a crisp. His mother was absent from the room at the time, but her attention was called to her child's condition by a little girl who witnessed the occurrence, but was unable to ex-tricate the unfortunate boy from his perli-ous situation. Medical aid was called im-mediately, but although it may relieve his suffering, we fear it can not save his life.

[The following article, from the Passs of September 27, has been the cause of relief to so many persons suffering from diptheria, that in obedience to the wishes of a number of our patrons, we have determined to reof our patrons, we have determined to reproduce it. The same treatment will be found beneficial in almost all diseases of the throat, and we recommend it to any who may be troubled in this manner]:

Diptheria and its Cure—Simple and Effections Remedy for the Disease.—This singular disease, which has thus far seemed to baffle the skill of our best physicians, has become so prevalent and has been so generally fatal, that any suggestion in regard to its cure will hardly prove uninteresting. Its causes are not known, and therefore all treatment has heretofore been merely experimental; but its pathogaomonic symptoms are so diversified and dissimilar, that in many instances the throat of the patient closes, and he dies before his disease has been discovered.

The diagnostic by which it is known.

closes, and he dies before his disease has been discovered.

The diagnostic by which it is known from other complaints of the throat, is the formation of a membrane which increases gradually untill the patient is literally strungled to death. It is sometimes accompanied by ulceration, and extreme prostration of the entire system, and at others by maither of these awantons, we in either case. neither of these symptoms, yet in either case it is equally fittal. To arrest the formation of this membrane would, therefore, seem equivalent to curing the disease, and this, in most instances, may be done in the following manner:

In the early stages of the complaint, which In the early stages of the complaint, which is always accompanied by a soreness and swelling of the throat, let the nation use a simple solution of all and water, as a gargle, every fifteen misutes. At the same time, moisten a piece of fiannel with a solution of the same kind, made warm as the patient can bear it, and bind it around his threat, renewing it as often as the gargle is administered, and in the meanwhile sprinkling fine sait between the fiannel and the neck. Use inwardly some tonic or stimulant, either separately, or if the prestration be great use both together. The treatment, as may be seen, is extremely simple, and, if used in the earlier stages of the disease, will effect a complete cure.

A PETITION FOR PATRA ABLOWANCE, John Dean had a contract to construct a culvert near Wade and Frieman streets. During the progress of the work, heavy ramy perpetrated great damage in the vicinity. Besides the loss of the contractor, the city anticed to the extent of several thousand dollars. Dean now sake the city, besides paying her own loss, to refund to him the amount his work was damaged by the rains. His principal, and in fact only reason, is, that he has done the work according to contract, a very unusual thing with contractors! The petition was laid on the table.

BRIDGE OVER THE MIAHI CANAL AT FOUR-TRENTH-STREET, The foot-bridge over the Miami Canal at Fourteenth-street is about worn out. The grades of the locality forbid the construction grades of the locality forbid the construction of an ordinary wagon-bridge. The citizens interested petition that a patent automatic bridge be erected there. This bridge is a new thing. It sits level with the bank of the canal, and is so arranged that boats open it, and it closes itself. A resolution was passed authorizing a contract for said bridge, provided the builder agrees to get the consent of the State, and will arect the bridge and allow it to be tested for six months without pay. If the bridge operates satisfactory, he is to be paid $1,000—if otherwise, he must remove the bridge at his own expense.

NATIONAL THEATER—The College Bown,—This new Irish drama, which, as our readers are doubtless aware, has been dramatized from Gerald Griffin's story of The Collegians, is now being performed at the National Theater to overflowing audiences. Like the other productions of Dion Bourcienalt, it is wholly without literary merit; but it has a clever plot, which is not his, and is full of incidents he never could have created.

The story may be told in a paragraph, but the manner in which the events are woven together in the drama, must be seen to be appreciated. The situations are impressive, and do not fail to interest all whe witness them; but the eye cheats the intellect, the sense betrays the reason, for the moment, and the play satisfies the one, while it is repulsive to the other.

"Hardress Cregan" was secretly married NATIONAL THEATER-The College Bonen, and the play satisfies the one, while it is repulsive to the other.

"Hardress Cregan" was secretly married to "Eily O'Connor," who is a peasant girl. The "Cregan" family falls into pecuniary distresses, and to save themselves from the debtor's cell "Mra. Cregan" insists upon the marriage of her son to "Annie Chute," who is very rich, and loves "Kyrle Daly." To bring about this result, "Eily" must be disposed of, and "Danny Mann," through the love he bears his master, proposes to do it, if "Hardress" will send him his glove as a token. This he refuses to do, when the mother gives "Danny" the glove, and he throws "Eily" into the lake. While engaged in this highly amiable and excessively amusing and interesting business, he is shot by "Myles Na Coppaleen," who saves "Eily," and takes her to his cottage. "Danny" finds his way home, confesses his crime, and just as the guests assemble to withess the marriage of "Annie" and "Hardress," the latter is arrested for murder and the examination that the little of the contraction of th isge of "Annie" and "Hardress," the latter is arrested for murder and the examination that follows brings all the parties together, reunites "Eily" to her husband and marries "Annie" to her lover.

Mr. Collins renders the part of "Myles" in his usual rollicking style; Virginia Howard that of "Eily" quite cleverly; Addie Proctor that of "Annie" in her usual viracious and aprightly manner, while Mr. Hamblin enacts "Danny Maun" in excellent style. The other parts—that of a priest and lawyer, the lover of "Annie" and the busband of "Eily," and the mother of "Hardress" are tolerably rendered. The scenery is good and the entire play gratifying, as we have said, to the eye, without appealing either to the intellect or heart.

Almost all the Irish melodies we ever or heart.

Almost all the Irish melodies we ever heard have been woven together, and, by the aid of the orchestra, accompanying the drama, relieving it in different places and filling the interim between the acts with very agreeable music. Colleen Bauen will be repeated this evening, and we heartily advice all our readers to witness it.

vise all our readers to witness it.

Pike's Opera-house. — The Opera-house will be occupied this evening by Hon. Wm. Yancey, who will address the people of this city on the present aspect of political affairs. Mr. Y. is an eloquent speaker, and his reputation will doubtless insure him a crowded monse.

RIVER NEWS.

Opposite this port, the Ohio was still re-ceding rather rapidly yesterday, but less so than on Thursday. There is sufficient water for present purposes of navigation, but the continuation of the present decline will soon render navigation difficult. During the twenty-four hours ending last evening, the river fell one foot nine inches, leaving a channel-depth at this point of about ten feet. At Pittsburg the water continued receding, with four feet in the channel at that port. Yesterday was cool, raw and cloudy, and quite disagreeable on the whole, with slight indications of rain or snow, we are scarcely indications of rain or snow, we are scarcely conscious which.

Business on the Landing was less animated yesterday than on Thursday, and freights were in but moderate supply, though tolerably firm at our last quotations, cargoes for the upper ports being still difficult of obtainment.

Yesterday's Louisville Courier observes:

The river was falling meetry fast yeaterday, with five feet eight inches water in the Canal last evening by the mark. During the previous twenty four hours it had receded fully six mohes at the head of the Falls, or about a foot and a half at Portland; in the pass on the Falls that's was only a little ever three feet water. During the morning the weather yes clear and pleasans, but during the evening it turned cloudy and windy, with strong indications of either rain or snow.

The rise in the lower Ohlo has relieved a large number of boats that were aground all along the route; and by reference to our Cairo letter, which will be found interesting, it will be seen that a whole rain to be the strong of the Ohlo. On the Grand Chain but fittle over four feet is reported. On most of the bars along the route from here to Cairo there is over five feet water.

We learned last night that the Neptune, on her way from Member 1st Oc. of Pittsburg, sinking one of them. The one which sank contained some 20,000 binches of coal, worth sank contained some 20,000 binches of coal, worth some $1,000 which the boat will have to pay.

Basescus at Facusson.—The mass meeting and backeone of the National Democracy at Florence, yesterday, was largely attended, from 3,000 to 4,000 persons being in attendance. Gov. Stevens, of Gregon, Hon. J. B. Clsy, Hon. J. W. Stavenson and Hon. W. L. Yancey addressed those assembled on the political issues of the day. The speech of Mr. Yancey was entirely stripped of every suspicion of secession. He was extremely moderate in his views, and frequently elicited great applause. He is a fine orator, and, judging from his appearance, no one would attribute to him any of the qualities which are supposed to belong to a fire-cater. Mesars. Breckinnings and Lane were both absent.

PARK QUESTION IN THE CITY COUNCIL.—The Special Committee, to whom was referred the proposal of Mrs. Groesbeck to sell her old homestead for park purposes, made a report in favor of purchasing it for $50,000, to be paid in city bonds. The Council, however, refused to concur, and instructed the committee to inform Mrs. G. that her proposition would not be accepted. osition would not be accepted.

ODDFELLOWS FAIR.—The undersigned, being a committee appointed for the purpose, for, and on behalf of the Committee on Fair, hereby tender our most grateful acknowledgments to our many friends, for the liberal support given that enterprise.

To the many ladies, both married and single, who rendered us most invaluable service, who lent us a halping-hand in our time of need, and who, disregarding their private duties elsewhere, inhored earnestly for us during the long continuance of our Fair, we are most profoundly grateful; and for ourselves, our committee and our fraternity, we return to them a thousand for ourselves, our committee and our fraternity, we return to them a thousand thanks for the prompt and decisive manner in which they responded to our eall for assistence, and for the self-sacrificing spirit they manifested in their endeavors to aid us. To you ladies, we feel ourselves much indebted for the most successful Fair ever attempted in our city, and as we, in obedience to the call of duty, meet from week to week in that beautiful Temple, which through your assistance, we now feel we may still be able to call our own, we shall refer to the ladies of Covington with feelings of the deepest gratitude, which a just appreciation of their services can not fail to inspire. Again, ladies, one and all, without distinction, please accept our most heartfelt thanks.

distinction, please accept our most heartfelt thanks.

To the citizens of Covington, Cincinnati, Newport, and the community at large, we return our most grateful thanks, for their many expressions of sympathy and kindness, and for the most liberal support ever extended an enterprise of the kind.

To our Brethren of the Order in Newport and Cizcinnati, we acknowledge ourselves greatly indebted, for their fraternal sympathy; for the interest they manifested in our success; for the very liberal manner in which they purchased tickets to the Fair, and for their efficient services in making sale of a large number of the same. To all of them, we return our warmest thanks, and should an evil day ever befall them, we trust they will not fail to give us the signal, that we may have an opportunity of reciprocating their kindness.

To the brethren at large, we feel grateful for many acts of kindness, and for their universal sympathy. May they ever prosper, and long be continued in the offices of benevolence and charity.

To the daily papers of Cincinnati and the Covington Journal, we return our sincere thanks for many favors; they each merit the most liberal support, and we commend them

The Famous Duci Between Mason and McCarry, of Virginia-The Determined Character of McCarry.

A contribution to an Eastern paper relating the particulars of the duci between Mason and McCarty, which occurred, we believe, in 1829, and a story showing the determination of the survivor in another offsic in Vic. of the survivor in another affair in Virginia;

of the survivor in another affair in Virginia:

Mason and McCarty were brothers in law—Mason a man of hot and bracible temper—McCarty of a resolute but better centrolled disposition. For some offense Mason challenged McCarty, who objected to a deadly combat with one so closely related to him, and offered to apologies. An apology was refused, and McCarty notified that he would be forced to fight, unless he proceeded with the challenge. McCarty then named his terms—that both parties should sit upon a keg of powder, and then fire it. This was objected to, by the seconds, as barbarous. McCarty then proposed that both should go upon the cupola of the Capitol at Washington, and leap from it, hand in hand—but this was also pronounced inadmissible. He then named muskets, loaded with two balls each, and eight paces, saying he would kill Mason—he did, being unharmed himself. The newspaper account states that McCarty's hair became white soon after, which I suppose is a mistake. I knew him ten years after the duel, and his hair was then brown, with no signs of being gray, and was so long as to fall upon his shoulders.

An incident in the subsequent life of McCarty exhibits the determined character of the man. Some where about twenty-five or thirty years ago, and before the preemption system had modified the rude and high-handed ways which prevailed in the disporal of the public lands, Colonel McCarty, with three or four friends, went from Virginia to attend a public land sale. On the day before the sale, the squatters in that region, according to the energetic system of that independent and very useful class of our fellow-citizens, notified all strangers present of what lands they would be allowed to bid upon, and that any attempt to bid for others would be summarily settled, at the any peril of the intruding bidder, and they were not men who trifled, or often failed, in that kind of patriotic and public dury.

At the moment the auctioneer was about to commence the sale, Colonel McCarty stepped forward, and requested a mom should allow no man to control his rights by threats; and then announcing himself and friends by name, and as from Virginia, he added that they intended to bid for whatever lands they saw fit, among those about to be offered, and any man attempting violence would do so at his peril. He then drew a brace of pistols; his friends did the same, and the bidding commenced. The Virginians bid as they pleased for the forbidden lands, but no fight resulted.

Nine Honses Destroyed—Less, $70,000 or $80,000.

On Tuesday night, in New Orleans, says the Picayune, a fire broke out in the back part of M. Weber's grocery store, No. 187 Poydras-street, opposite the market. With the fresh wind blowing, the confiagration spread rapidly on both sides, and, notwithstanding the efforts of the fire department, four brick buildings, three stories high, were entirely destroyed, and a fifth much damaged. All the property belonged to non-residents, for whom Messrs. Lobit & Carpentier are agents, and all was insured.

The tenants were: The Citizens' Bakery, No. 191; L. Régensberger, merchant tailor, No. 185; N. Weber, grocesy, 187, and B. Kowalesky, large clothing and fashionable tailoring establishment, No. 185. Hockarsmith & Co. 3 Union Steam Mills occupying No. 183, was badly damaged, and their stock suffered a great deal. The upper part of the buildings were occupied by families. The total loss by this fire can not fall short of $50,000.

About half-past one, and just as the fireman-had obtained full control of the fire, the bells rang another slarm, and the engines were called to the corner of St. Charles and Felicity-streets, where, another large confingration raged. The fire started in the middle of the clock opposite the horse-startion, and destroyed five houses on St. Charles-street, and two on Felicity-street.

EXECUTION OF A MURDHARR IN PLORIDA-The Pensacola Gazette, of Saturday last,

Ferdinand McCaskill was executed yesterday at twelve M., in view of about 250 spectators. He was attended on the scaffold by Rev. C. W. Thomas, Chaplain of the Navyyard, and stemed calm, collected and resigned. He professed to have obtained pardon from that higher tribunal to which we are all accountable. In taking leave of the world he hoved for forgiveness of those whom he had injured, as he truly forgave his enemies. The fatal cap was then drawn over his face, the drop fell, and he was innehed into eternity with scarcely a siruggle. After hanging twenty-one minutes his body was taken down and delivered to his triends, who brought it to this city, and proceeded by railroad to deposit it amid the scenes of his childhood at Coon Hill, forty miles from this place.
